“ Thank You Mike for all you had done for your wife Jennifer and her children. You were a kind, helpful person. We will never forget. You took great care of Jennifer while she struggled each day with ALS.

“ One warm memory of Mike comes, oddly, from another funeral. Years ago, both Mike and his brother Greg were thoughtful enough to attend the funeral of Mike's former father-in-law. We all sat together, and when the music started up, I was treated to a most wonderful sound -- Mike, right next to me, singing the hymns. I'd always known Mike sang in his church choir, but hadn't had the pleasure of hearing him sing before that. I'm sure he touched the hearts of many people by sharing his beautiful voice on Sunday mornings.

Best of all was Mike's close bond and continuing devotion to his daughter Julie, throughout the years. From help taking her first steps, to math tutoring after school, to fun trips, to their more recent "grown-up" relationship, Julie was never far from Mike's mind, and was always in his heart.

“ Mike was always such a kind, caring and funny guy. Each day at work, he would come by my desk with a funny story, to which he would start off with "I was gonna say..." and then he'd tell me his story, that always ended with a bad pun. His co-workers and I fondly dubbed these stories "Zinkisms." He always made me smile. Although I am happy that he is no longer suffering, it makes me so sad to know that I will never hear another Zinkism. Mike - you will never be forgotten and are already sorely missed. - Crissie Beyer
