“ I went to middle school and high school with Doris, and then we reconnected again when I moved to California and we found each other on Facebook. She was an early and enthusiastic supporter of my food blog, and we regularly connected on Facebook and Instagram (and I thoroughly enjoyed her pictures of the amazing culinary creations she made with her kids). More recently, we played Words with Friends almost constantly, and she was one of my favorite competitors. I'm writing in some memories today because I was thinking about her and how much I missed hearing from her. She touched many, many lives with her warmth and humor, and I will always treasure the memories of our friendship. Sending much love to her family. - Jeanne Fratello

“ My friend Doris Woo Trask has left this world too early - last Sunday, New Year's Day, to be specific.

Doris and I became friends when our girls started Girl Scouts together in kindergarten. That was nine years ago, and she and her daughter, Isabella, have been almost constants in my and my daughter's life since then. From Girl Scouts to gymnastics to dance class to community theater to summer sewing and photography classes to club volleyball. And that's not even counting the regular school classes, carpools, birthday parties, sleepovers and that crazy Black Friday shopping trip together (when I took Isabella with my daughter at 3:30am to go shopping).... I helped Doris out wherever I could when she couldn't drive or be there at some of Isabella's many activities over the years. And it was my pleasure. I loved watching our girls' friendship together grow and develop. Doris and I took our girls to what I think was their first concert - Selena Gomez. I also remember (verbally) teaching the game of volleyball to Doris and helping her navigate the world of club volleyball for Isabella. She and Ben Trask certainly have devoted and given herculean efforts to be there for their childrens' many activities and interests... I am shocked and saddened by her sudden passing and am grateful for the time we had together in person and our texting / email conversations - there were so many. She was super creative in so many ways, including at kids costume design, baking/cooking and artistically. I think Isabella has taken after her in this regard. What a gentle, sweet, caring, smart, loving soul Doris was that could not be prouder of her kids. No words can express how devastated I am for her family. Ben has been a devoted husband and father through very challenging times the last several years. I will miss her and know she is with her beloved mother now. She will still be with you Ben, Theo and Isabella, but not in the way we all would have hoped. I pray for comfort and peace for her family and all who loved her.

“ Family was very important to Doris. She took the time and effort to create a website family tree for both the Trasks and Woos. I don't think I ever properly thanked Doris and told her how much I appreciated it. I will always remember Doris as a toddler who loved her toy dog that walked and barked. She continued her love for animals later in life. I recall her parents mentioning she continually brought home stray cats when she was living on her own with roommates. Her love for animals obviously continued, as she was an advocate when I (as a volunteer) reached out to solicit online votes for the Humane Society in my community during a competition for a national grant. Doris will be missed by family and friends and animals in need of a home everywhere.

“ Doris show grace, kindness, caring and her determination to survive was phenomenal. A Christmas tradition of opening present together I was a bit nervous because these were my sons in-laws. And our family is so loud and boisterous and just in your face and Fran's family was so quiet. And I remember one Christmas standing back just not sure how I would fit in and Doris's walked up behind me and she put her hand in the middle of my back and she said to me we all love Julian. And we love you too. And that Christmas she gave me this beautiful crystal bowl which I still have. Without me saying anything to anyone Doris's knew what I felt and went out of her way to make me feel comfortable. I know Fran will miss her dearly And for Julian she was the sister he never had. Know that God is caring for Doris now. I will always remember her as the Beautiful China doll with the heart of love for all.

“ Doris and I attended high school together. When I first joined the ranks of Facebook, Doris was one of the very first people I reconnected with and she was one of the first to volunteer in assisting my son with his "Cyber Flat Stanley Project." I grieve. A lovely person, clearly dedicated to her family and friends. I am deeply saddened by the loss that you and your family have encountered. <https://www.facebook.com/groups/151652371671/permalink/10150660027246672/>

“ I met Doris when our kids were still in pre-school. We met through a Mandarin teacher KF found for us at a playground in Pacific Palisades. I was impressed by her intelligence and quiet strength. We became best friends over our years together. We were co-room parents several years for Chloe and Theo's classes. We were co-party planners (Doris made THE BEST most ornate cupcakes and deserts -bar none!) We ran Chinese New Year celebrations for too many years to count for both Theo and Isabella's classes-complete with an annual bubble wrap stomp to usher in the New Year. Doris always contributed her homemade DELICIOUS pot stickers to these events. Doris was a fantastic cook. Doris was a "can do" person. She was extremely generous with her time and talents. We taught art in the public school every single week together for several years. She was a real partner who worked hard and without complaint and with great humor. She was an extremely talented artist. She personally did art with me every Monday for many years and produced many wondrous pieces of art. The rest of the class always said WOW Doris you are such a GREAT artist and she was still so modest!!!! She had patience to do really detailed beautiful work. She was a TRUE BLUE friend. When I was in the hospital in LA, Doris stayed with me for really long periods of time quietly supporting me with her calm humorous presence. When I was in the hospital in NJ last January Doris was ready to drive to the part of NJ I was in and visit me even though she was on vacation with her family whom she loved dearly and was visiting with. Doris was the MOST heroic person I have ever met. Through the last 10 years she has been through more than I can even say and yet she did not complain and was soooooo happy to be there for her family. She loved them all so much. Even in her most trying times she had a smile and when we visited together she was so KIND. Fugoo and Bubbles always made us laugh with their shenanigans. Doris was such a PROUD mom. She was the biggest cheerleader for Isabella and Theo and I am sure she will continue to be by their side cheering them on. She loved Ben and Ben loved Doris. Ben was so there for her every step of this journey. I have never met anyone with as much patience, strength, hope and love of life as Doris Woo-Trask. My heart, love and prayers are with her family.

“ Doris was an amazing person. Through her Facebook posts it was evident how much she loved her family. She cherished her children and was very proud of them.

Please know that the Woo/Trask families are in our prayers. Rest in heavenly peace Doris.

“ My condolences to you Ben and to your Beautiful children. Doris shared so many milestones. I can see you all meant the world to her and love was a constant in the Trask home. The Woo and Trask family will be in our thoughts and prayers. Goodbye fellow classmate. I will miss you on Facebook and kicking my butt on Words with friends. Till we meet again.
