“ Dear Mrs. Cairoli, Eve and Family,

We are so very sorry to hear of Mr. Cairoli's passing. Eve, you and I have reminisced many times of our first days at Boston College when our families met back in 1982. Your dad was so cheerful, fun and excited to be there at that important milestone in our lives. He and your mom were so friendly and caring, it helped make that uncertain time a little easier. I will always remember him in that way.

Though I haven't seen Mr. Cairoli in quite some time, I share your sorrow. He has left an important legacy in his military service and his career through sharing his knowledge globally. I am sure you are very proud of him.

Please accept our love and condolences at this sad time. He will always be with you, watching over his family.

*Love,
Felicia, Joe & Liz*

“ We were in a prayer group with Angela and Jim back in 2000/2001, when our children were very young. It was a wonderful group - sharing and praying together - and Jim and Angela were a very big part of that. Slowing down from our busy lives for one night a week, and sharing faith with such beautiful people was something that we looked forward to each and every Monday. Jim and Angela were always very classy role models. Sharing faith and prayer with two such devoted people was part of what made our little group so special. You and your family are in our prayers. God Bless.

“ I first met the Cairoli family on the 1st of May 2015. I rose to the day and sun set with the family. Our routine for the day was one of fun and great feeling. We had our usual breakfast of cereal waiting while we were still in the bathroom to clean ourselves by the beautiful wife of Mr Cairoli. Every day of our life was filled with humor as we shared knowledge of two continents. Mr Cairoli took me through his youthful days in Newark and California through to his early working life with IBM. He walk me through his extensive life across the globe and the great people he met. I equally share with him African mythology and my own life growing up. Of particular interest was how Mr James will say to me "Shout the door" this is when he was in the shower ensuring water did not spill over across the bathroom. He once told me at night when I rose to assist him during the night. " Have you come to help me? Oh good that is the American spirit. This is what got this country going."

Am very humble by the life of Mr James Cairoli and Mrs. Angela Cairoli. "Shout the door"!!!!

I will miss you alot Paapa.

Your faithful Aide.

“ Dear Cairoli Family:

I wish to convey my sincerest condolences to your entire family. Losing a loved one in death is one of the hardest things that anyone will ever have to deal with. There is a great hope held out to us for the future because God promises to bring those we lost back to life by means of a resurrection to a paradise earth, where sickness and death will be no more. I hope this brief message will bring you a measure of comfort in this difficult time.

“ Dear Cairoli Family,

My deepest condolences to all on the loss of a Godly man.

I remember the first time I met Mr. Cairoli on the playground at his grandsons school and seeing this Strong man stand in the crowd anxiously waiting for dismissal to play with his grandson. Over the years I've been bless to witness the same man return for his second grandson and then granddaughter. He played so hard and never seemed to tire. That's the memory I hold in my heart and will always. The unconditional Love he had for ALL will be with me forever.

I know the pain you are all feeling and my prayer to the family is to keep the faith, love, and memories alive by doing as Mr. Cairoli did... LOVE all whom he met.

Rest in peace Mr. Cairoli

In friendship and love,

Renee Wichelns and family

“ I'll always remember the fun playing board games when I would sleep over your house as a little girl. And then the infamous trip to the Cloister Museum when I was around 7 years old. You always enjoyed a touch of culture, Uncle Jimmy! With many loving memories, thank you for the laughter and fun when we were together. Love you forever, your niece, Rose Ann.
