“ My condolences, and those of my mother, to Jack's family. Mr. Showell was my eighth grade math teacher in a basement room of the Ella G. Clarke School in Lakewood, where, at the time, all eighth graders were consolidated. Ten years later, Jack was my principal at Lakewood Middle School, where I taught English and social studies from 1964 to 1965. My mother, Martha Gold, also taught English there and at Lakewood High School (1956-1977). I remember him as a strict, fair teacher and a fun person with whom to work.

“ When I think of Jack, I always remember him at our house one Christmas Eve. His sparkling blue eyes with the sharp intelligence behind them. Rest easy now, Jack.
