“ Sue: I am so sorry for your loss. Bill was a fine man and a good friend. I so enjoyed hunting for old bottles with him, deep sea fishing, and playing horseshoes. I've been searching for you guys for ages. It's a terrible shame that I'm too late in locating you. Rick Hixon

“ Everyone knows about Bill's kindness and good nature, but it was deeper than that. He always showed me genuine warmth and concern. Watching Bill and Sue together also taught me what a real, loving marriage was really about.

Bill was also a fantastic cook. He introduced me to Montreal steak seasoning, which I've used religiously ever since. Plus Bill taught me how to cut and serve a whole chicken.

“ I can trace my memory of Bill to one of the social gatherings at the DiPaolo house where Bill and I were playing horseshoes in the dark and somehow he throws 2 ringers back to back to beat me. It was at that exact moment that I fully understood what "The Ringer" was all about. Great guy that will be missed. RIP Bill.

“ I don't know much about him directly but I do know his youngest son very well. He is one of the most caring, generous, and genuine men I've ever known. That doesn't generally happen without being brought up by parents who poses the same qualities. Thank you Mr. Foust for raising one of the best friends I've ever had. Rest in Peace.
